Paula Slier

Paula Slier is the CEO and Founder of Newshound Media International, a media production services agency that covers television, print, radio and online. Her clients and team span the globe, with over 20 studios, she prides herself on being an efficient and effective team leader. Newshound Media International's aim is to provide newsworthy content from around the world in several languages. Paula has been awarded for bravery in journalism for extreme work perils faced in Libya, Gaza, Syria, Afghanistan and Iraq. She has her BA with majors in Philosophy and International Relations and she lectures at universities and trains journalists. The bi-monthly columnist for The Media magazine in South Africa has addressed the Eurasian Media Forum, the MENA journalism forum, Global Editors Network and the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe, to mention a few. She hopes to improve the standard of journalism and to counter unreliable information by bringing together people from vast backgrounds.
